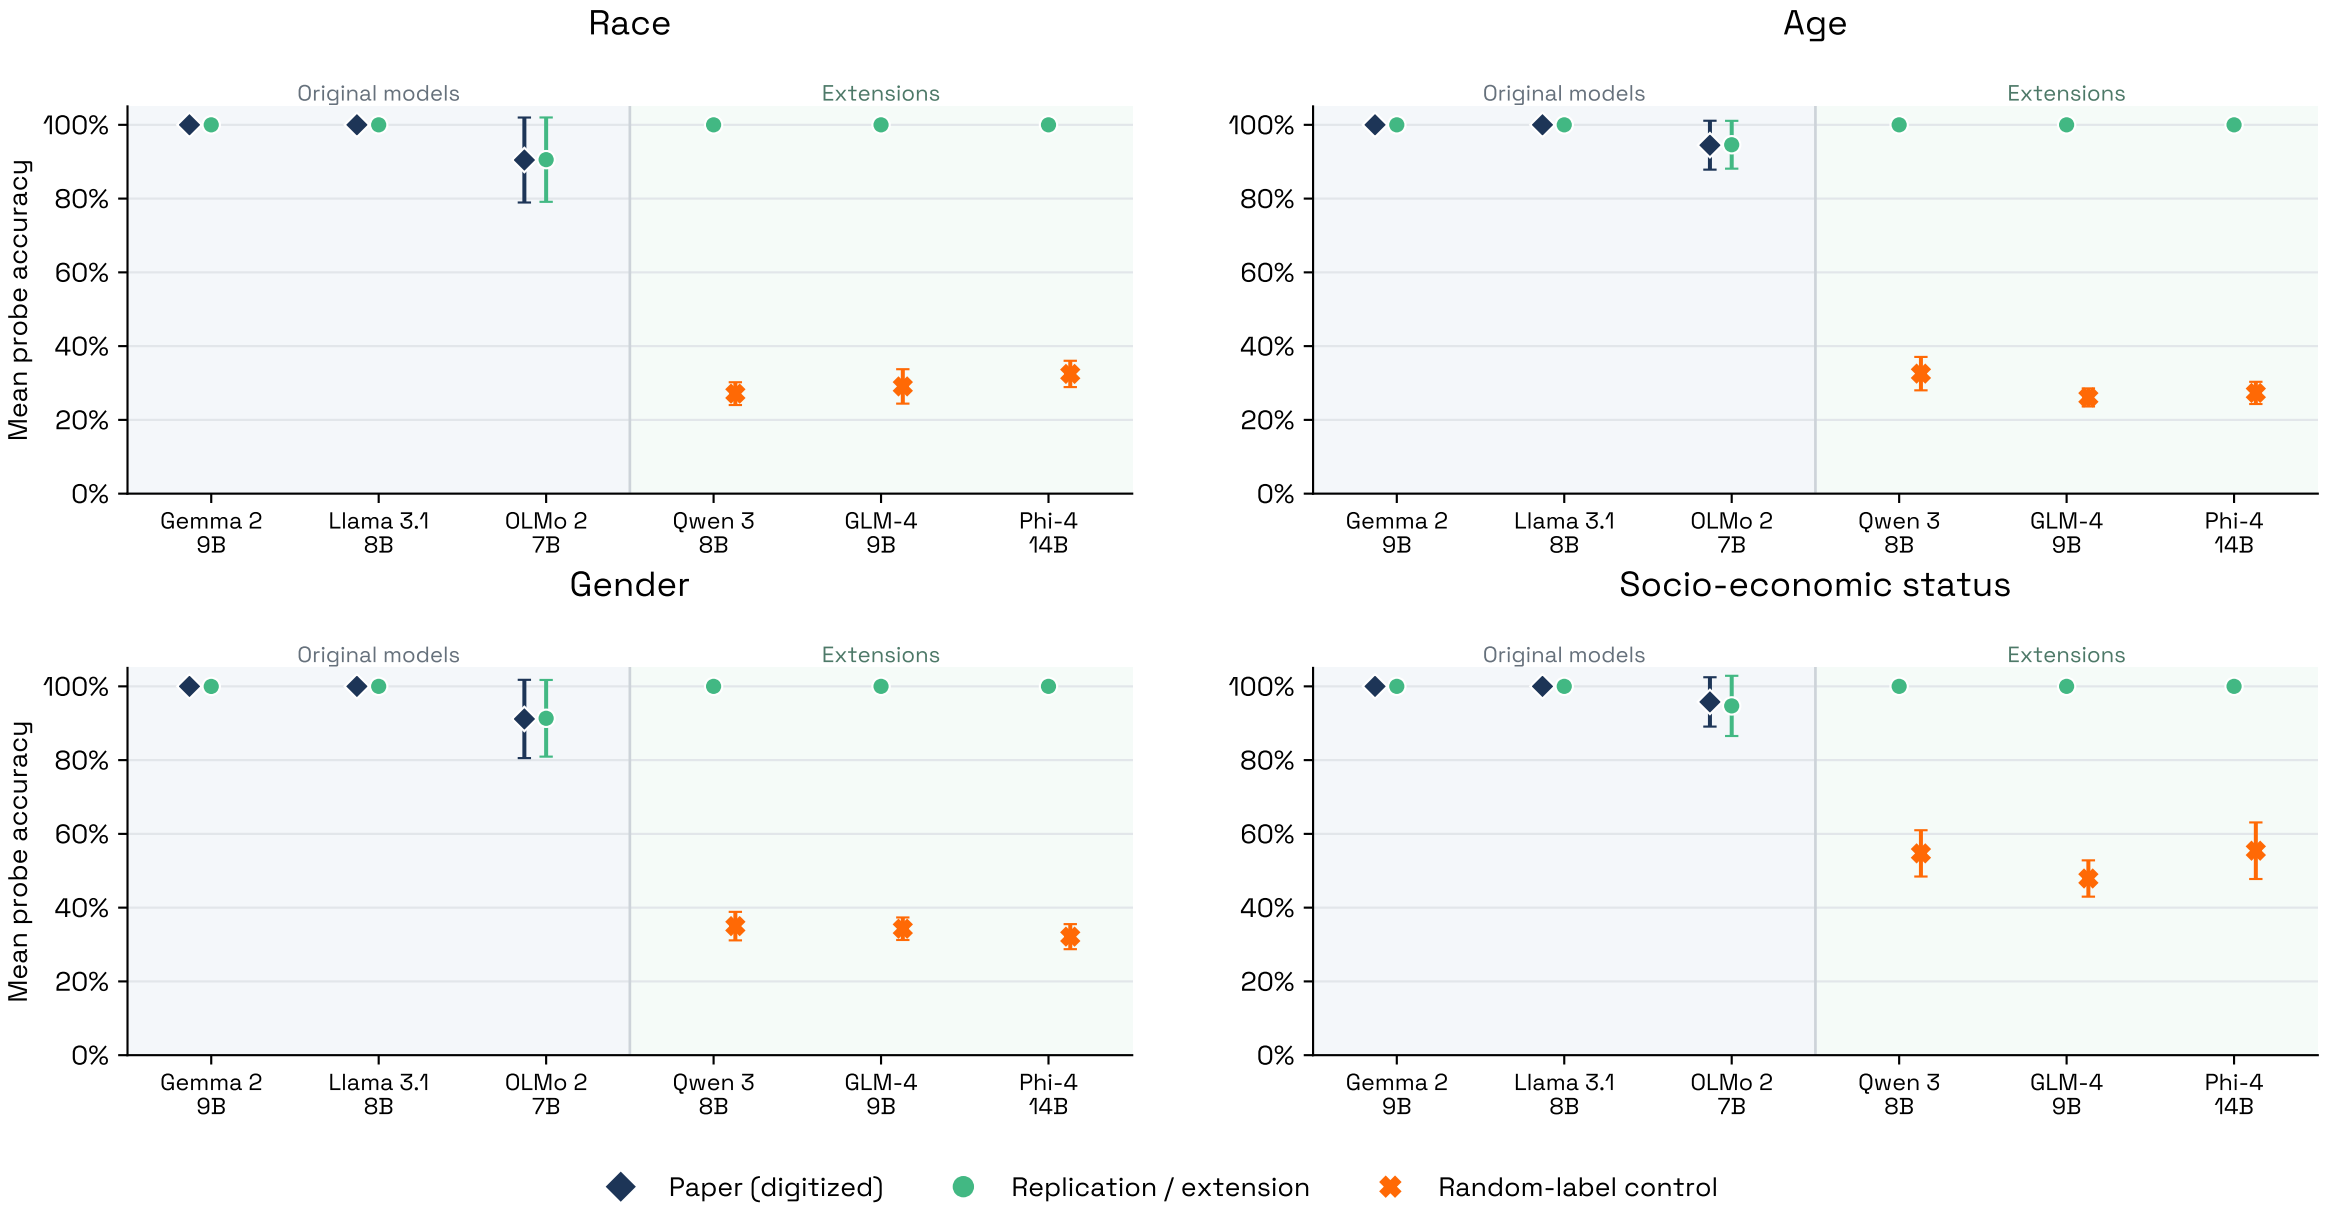
Demographic information remains linearly separable across model families

Reading Between the Prompts · paper baselines, reduced replication, and cross-model extensions



Points average five selected layers; extension points also average five folds. Error bars show 95% CIs. No paper reference exists for extension models.